

Cheque Printer Identification Number for Trial Period Use

This is to confirm that Suprabusiness Forms and Supratech Short Runs Inc has submitted a self certification application and has attested to meeting the pre-requisites and requirements outlined in the Cheque Printer Self Certification Program, trial version 1.0, dated 01-05-2009 including compliance with CPA Standard 006 within acceptable tolerance and deviations as per the Standard.

In accordance with the terms of the Self Certification Program, Suprabusiness Forms and Supratech Short Runs Inc has been allocated Printer Identification Number 1006, and must print this number on the back of its cheques in accordance with the Self Certification Program. Any cheques for which the Printer is only responsible for the base stock (i.e. no MICR), may be indicated by Printing 1006-B on the back.

By issuing this Printer Identification Number, the CPA does not represent in any way that the cheques produced by the printer are or will be in compliance with CPA Standard 006, only that the printer has attested to being capable of producing such cheques.

Failure to comply with the Self Certification Program may, at the discretion of the Cheque Printer Self Certification Group (CPSCG), result in the revocation of this certificate.

The Self Certification Program is being offered on a trial basis only at this time (for six months, from June 1, 2009 to November 30, 2009), and may be terminated at any time by participating printers or financial institutions without notice or liability. Printer Identification Number provided to printers for the purpose of the trial program will be valid only for the trial period (unless agreed upon otherwise at the end of the trial period).

Except as provided for above, this certificate is valid from June 1, 2009 to November 30, 2009.

Dated: May 19, 2009
